

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SPOTLIGHT ON IPAC

On Friday, November 14, 2008, the IDEA Performing Arts Center live music venue, The SPOTLIGHT, will feature a performance by Mysterious Traveler. The group, at its heart a jazz band, has an approach that draws heavily upon improvisation and spontaneity, yet with its unique blend of personalities and musical backgrounds, traverses genres as diverse as funk, rock, Latin, blues, African, alternative, reggae and world beat. The performance will run from 8:00-10:00 pm with a $10.00 admission fee. And all musicians, poets and spoken word enthusiasts are welcome to take the stage. Pay at the door, but seats are limited so tickets are on sale at <https://idea.ticketleap.com>

IDEA's SPOTLIGHT will continue every other Friday, with upcoming performances by world re known pianist Eric Lewis.

The Institute for the Development of Education in the Arts (IDEA) made a name for itself as a non-profit arts education organization, dedicated to broadening the artistic potential of underserved youth in the Delaware Valley (specifically Camden) to inspire them towards social and environmental change. Along with The SPOTLIGHT, IDEA's new prime waterfront location at 1 Harbor Boulevard in Camden in the Susquehanna Bank Center currently houses an assortment of youth arts programs, including CITYKIDS Production Company, Music by the Sea Summer Jazz Camp and Stand Up For The Arts. The IDEA Performing Arts Center boasts a new dance classroom, a Creation Station art room and a 130 seat theater where kids and adults can perform.

CEO Cynthia Primas would like to open up IPAC to the regional community, making it a safe haven for all theater, dance and art programs. The IPAC welcomes other organizations to utilize the space.
